going for gold

When Charlie began attending the Inclusive Sports Training (IST) program every Saturday, his family knew this would have a positive and everlasting impact on his life. Not only did this newfound passion improve his physical and mental health, it also helped him to build lifelong friendships and most importantly, a sense of belonging.

With the support of IST Head Coach Liz Gosper, Charlie developed a passion to train and compete in multiclass mainstream events such as triathlons, duathlons and cross-country competitions which keeps him very busy!

Having his NDIS plan managed by Leisure Networks for the past four years has gifted Charlie with more time to focus on doing what he loves – training and competing. It's one less thing to worry about when winning is on his mind. Charlie's parents also feel that choosing to have Charlie's plan managed by Leisure Networks has taken the pressure off them, allowing them to enjoy more time watching Charlie compete and live his best life.
